This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

GEOGRAPHY, VOYAGES, AND TRAVELS.

"It hath bin lately maintained in an Academicall Dispute, That the best Travailling is in maps and good Authours, because thereby a man may take a view of the state and manners of the whole world, and never mix with the corruptions of it. A pleasing opinion for solitary prisoners, who may thus travell over the world, though confined to a dungeon."—PROFITABLE INSTRUCTIONS FOR TRAVELLERS, 1633.

NOVELS AND WORKS OF FICTION.

LIBRARY EDITIONS.

"Oh, where are the endless romances
Our grandmothers used to adore?
The Knights, with their helms and their lances,
Their shields, and the favours they wore?
And the monks with their magical lore?
They have passed to oblivion and Nox,
They have fled to the shadowy shore,—
They are all in the Fourpenny Box!
They lie by the bookseller's door:
They are al in the Fourpenny Box!—ANDREW LANG.

RECENT COLONIAL PUBLICATIONS
AND BOOKS RELATING TO THE BRITISH COLONIES.

England looking on her Colonies can say: "Here are lands and seas, spice-lands, corn-lands, timber-lands, over-arched by zodiacs and stars, clasped by many-sounding seas; wide spaces of the Maker's building, fit for the cradle yet of mighty Nations and their Sciences and Heroisms. Fertile continents still inhabited by wild beasts are mine, into which all the distressed populations of Europe might pour themselves, and make at once an Old World and a New World human. By the eternal fiat of the gods, this must yet one day be; this, by all the Divine Silences that rule this Universe, silent to fools, eloquent and awful to the hearts of the wise, is incessantly at this moment, and at all moments, commanded to begin to be. Unspeakable deliverance, and new destiny of thousandfold expanded manfulness for all men, dawns out of the Future here. To me has fallen the god-like task of initiating all that: of me and my Colonies, the abstruse Future asks, Are you wise enough for so sublime a destiny? Are you too foolish?"

"I remember a great statesman saying that an official had so much manuscript to read that he could hardly be expected to read anything that was printed. I think, however, that officials must be very busy indeed who cannot find time to read two remarkable books which have appeared this year. One of these was written by the Austrian statesman, Baron Hübner, a Conservative among Conservatives in his own country, but who overflowed with sympathy, not only for Englishmen, but for our more democratic relations across the ocean."—Lord Granville.

"One is doubtful whether to admire most the physical or mental energies of the author of these charming volumes . . We have never read a book more free from any traces of servility. He is fresh, crisp, and lively; his observations are incisive, and the whole work replete with interest and novelty. . . . Our readers have been in luck in having two such books as Baron Hübner's 'Through the British Empire,' and Mr. Froude's 'Oceana' offered to them in one year. Years may pass without the appearance of any record of travel so original, and from which so much is to be learned. However much these two able and accomplished authors may differ, they have one thing in common—entire freedom from clap-trap, and from any taint of the doctrinaire.—

The author (having visited the Sandwich Islands) first reached Sydney (via Auckland), in Sept. 1878; he then travelled through N.S. Wales and Queensland returning to Sydney Nov. 1879: then proceeding slowly overland he arrived in Melbourne the last day of the year. He next visited Geelong, Ballarat, the Western District, and travelled overland to Adelaide, via Penola, Mount Gambier, Robe, &c. After going north as far as James Town and Port Pirie, he returned and made other Excursions from Adelaide to Port Lincoln, Goolwa, &c. returning to Melbourne by the end of the year, via Mount Gambier, Casterton, Hamilton, Ararat, Maryborough, Castlemaine and Kyneton. In January, 1881, he made another excursion to N.S. Wales, coming back in March to Melbourne whence he took passage in the Orient liner ss "Aconcagua" to Europe. In June, 1882, the author again turned his face to the South and took passage to Queensland, via Torres Straits afterwards travelling overland to Sydney and Melbourne where he arrived at the beginning of March, 1883.

The Torch

And Colonial Book Circular.

VOL. I. LONDON, DECEMBER, 1887. No. 2.

"What's in a name? that which we call a rose
By any other name would smell as sweet."—Romeo and Juliet.

In naming the COLONIAL BOOK CIRCULAR, we had in mind the field of our labours Abroad rather than at Home; not so much the fact that Colonial Publications would be catalogued in it. The experience of one issue has shown that a change in the title is desirable. We have, therefore, borrowed a word of one syllable from the quotation placed at the head of our first number—a word simple, expressive, and we think not inappropriate to the publication; namely by which it will in future be designated. The original title will be retained as an adjunct.

Most encouraging are the letters which we have received in acknowledgment of specimen copies of our first issue, from Booksellers, Publishers, Librarians and book-lovers all over the world. One publisher writes: "the idea is capital;" another regrets that he hadn't an advertisement in it,—"pray reserve me a page in the next number." A third gentleman—one of the highest authorities in England on matters pertaining to libraries and catalogues—wrote "heartily" thanking us for the copy sent to him, saying, "It is the handiest and "most useful record he has ever seen. Its plan and classification are excellent and "its detailed accuracy deserve the greatest praise. It will be invaluable for reference "wherever English literature is read."

Among the contents of the present number will be noticed classified lists of books adapted for Christmas and New Year Gifts, and a Select List of English and some American Periodicals. We have to thank Mr. James Bain, of the Toronto Public Library, for titles of many new Canadian Publications. Several notes of interest are held over till the next issue—crowded out by the very large number of new books, the result of a most prolific publishing season.

AN AUSTRALASIAN DIRECTORY & ADDRESS BOOK.*

THE Australasian Federal Directory of Commerce, Trades, and Professions, is the title of a very comprehensive work recently published. This book, which is a handsome super royal 8vo. volume of 1200 pp., is the national business Directory for the Australasian colonies, and consists of two parts. The first part contains in one alphabetic list the commercial, professional, official, and other addresses for every town in Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania and Fiji. This alphabetic directory is prefaced by a description of the Social Development of Australasia, and is followed by a special series of 15 double page maps, accompanied by a gazetteer of towns and the most recent tariffs.

The second part of the work is a Classified Directory of all Trades and Professions followed in the Australasian colonies, and must prove exceedingly useful in commercial circles. Over one hundred thousand addresses of firms, professional men, and tradesmen, which have never been collected before, are here grouped together in a most conveniently classified form. A few figures will give some idea of the value of this classified Directory. Among the addresses it contains are the following:—Chief Government Officials, 2,200; Ecclesiastical, 3,200; Legal, 3,200; Medical, 3,000; Educational, 8,500; Banks, 1,500; Hotels, 8,500; Insurance, 800; Mining, 1,800; Press, 750: Agents, 4,500; Architects, 450; Auctioneers, 1,700; Booksellers and Stationers, 800; Boot and Shoemakers and Importers, 3,000; Brewers, 450; Land and Stock Holders, 7,500, Builders, 2,000; Coach Builders, 700; Distillers, 120; Drapers, 2,000; Engineers, 800; Grocers, 2,400; Stores, 4,000; Ironmongers, 750; Photographers, 400; Printers, 600; Sadlers, 950; Surveyors, 600; Tailors, 1,600; Tanners, 400; Watch Makers and Jewellers, 1,100; Wine Growers, 1,000; Wine and Spirit Merchants, 700; and many thousands of others under a variety of trade headings.

The Classified Directory is preceded by a valuable and interesting summary of the commercial progress of Australasia, expressly written for the Federal Directory, while the Index of Occupations is given in French, German, Spanish, and Italian, as well as in English, thus giving it a European, and in fact, world-wide utility. The enormous amount of labour spent on this work will be recognised when the area of Australasia is considered, and from the fact that several thousand persons have gathered addresses specially for this Federal Directory through the continent and the islands. The work is edited and published by Mr. J. W. F. Rogers of Melbourne.

The first volume of this work, prepared under instructions from the New Zealand government, is now ready. Mr. White, the author, has for a long period of years been collecting traditions from the older natives, including curious lore of the race, some of which had not been previously divulged to Europeans, and is now published for the first time. The Maori priesthood long proscribed their sacred and esoteric teaching, believing that their gods were not annihilated but only silenced for a time by the superior power and influence of the European God. Mr. White, by taking advantage of every favourable opportunity and by persuasion, has recovered valuable traditions which would otherwise have been lost. From the opening pages it appears that there was not only a regular priesthood, but a college for the sons of chiefs. Students attended for four or five years, and were instructed in agriculture, astronomy, history, and theology. Other portions of this volume contain the legends of the creation and the wars of spirits, of a great cataclysm or convulsion of nature, like to a deluge, with account of its cause, the names of men famous both before and after, a description of the drowned world and landing of the survivors. Local critics having taken exception to the plain story of the uncivilized and unpolished man, an expurgated edition is in preparation. Apart, however, from this, Mr. White's book has special value, and a large amount of interesting matter, for students of philology as well as mythology. A competent writer—Mr. Edward Tregear, in a review of the work contributed to the New Zealand Times, says of this part of the work: "it is a revelation that images of such sublimity and beauty could be found in the native language or its poetry," and "no one has yet come forward who can present these songs as Mr. White can."

CAPTAIN DAMPIER.*

We notice this volume, which appears to be a reprint of a work originally published in 1831, to correct its final paragraph. Therein the compiler remarks upon the absence of any record relating to the last days of Dampier: that no one was able to tell how he spent the evening of his life, when he died, or where he was buried. More than fifty years ago, Dampier's Will was discovered at Doctors' Commons (it is now at Somerset House) and upon the back of it a memorandum to the effect that William Dampier died in the parish of St. Stephen's, Coleman-street, London, in March, 1715, in the 63rd year of his age. It is satisfactory to know that the testator left considerable property, and that the first Englishman so far as is at present known, who set foot upon the shores of Australia, did not, as some have feared, pine in poverty or neglect. This information, contained in a Biographical Sketch of Captain Dampier, by the late Admiral Smyth, and long buried in an old Magazine, will be fully confirmed in the Life of Dampier which Prof. J. K. Laughton has contributed to Mr. Leslie Stephen's Dictionary of National Biography.

GREATER ENGLAND. By J. Frederick Hodgetts, author of "Older England" (Hatchards). Any work dealing with the History of the English Colonies is always welcome, for we are all, interested in the subject. Opening this volume at pages 148 and 149, we happened upon several errors which should be rectified in a second edition. "Guiros" should be "Quiros." A Dutch navigator "Zeachen" did not discover any part of Australia, and therefore could not have named "Arnhems Land" or the "Van Diemen's Land" on the north coast, in 1618. "Zeachen" is supposed to be a misprint for "Zeehaan," one of the vessels of Tasman's Expedition of 1642. "Arnhem Land" owes its name to the ship "Arnhem" of the "Pera" and "Arnhem" expedition which explored that part of the coast in 1623; "Van Diemen's Land" to a later navigator, Tasman, who surveyed the north and north-west coast in his second expedition during Van Diemen's governor generalship in 1644. Lastly, General Peter Carpenter did not explore "with considerable accuracy" the gulf which bears his name. In justice to the author of "Greater England" it should be mentioned that these errors do not make their first appearance in his book. With many others relating to Dutch discoveries in Australasia, they have appeared in numerous works since the Abbe Prevost issued the second volume of his Collection of Voyages nearly 150 years ago.

Among forthcoming volumes of Mr. Walter Scott's "Canterbury Poets," is a collection of Australian Ballads and Rhymes. The editor is Mr. DOUGLAS B. W. SLADEN, and the volume (price one shilling) will, no doubt, prove to be one of the most popular of the Series.

Following up his commission from Mr. Scott, Mr. Sladen has received from Griffith, Farran & Co., of London and Sydney, his own publishers, a commission to prepare a selection from Australian and New Zealand poems on a more comprehensive plan. The volume will be a handsome 8vo of 500 pages (to be published, we believe, at 3/6) and the pieces will not be limited to Bush pieces, though those, with a distinct Australian flavour about them, will be most acceptable. Any Australian or New Zealand colonist is eligible for representation, though he may only have written one poem, if that poem be of sufficient merit. The Editor will undertake to read anything printed, whether a volume or a newspaper cutting, but he cannot return contributions or promise to persevere with manuscript difficult to decipher. [Indistinct writing is sometimes a characteristic of great poets!] Poems should be sent in print to ensure their being read. Those who are willing to do so are requested to send brief biographic details of themselves. Contributions must be addressed to Douglas B. W. Sladen, care of Griffith, Farran & Co. London.

LAW AND JURISPRUDENCE

"Now for the Laws of England (if I shall speak my opinion of them without partiality either to my profession or country), for the matter and nature of them, I hold them wise, just and moderate laws: they give to God, they give to Cæsar, they give to the subject what appertaineth. It is true they are as mixt as our language, compounded of British, Saxon, Danish, Norman customs. And surely as our language is thereby so much the richer, so our laws are likewise by that mixture the more complete."—

The Author has undertaken this work under the conviction that it would be of great advantage to reduce into the form of a Code the leading principles of the Law of Nations; that the greater diffusion of knowledge of such Law would often prevent disputes; and that on the occurrence of differences between States, a collection of the well-established rules of the same would facilitate a resort to international arbitration as the best method for securing just and equitable decisions consistent with the rights and dignity of States. The Author also gives copious statements of the Treaties concluded between different States on the various subjects treated in the work.

BIBLICAL, RELIGIOUS, AND PHILOSOPHICAL WORKS.

"The long-drawn, more than Odyssean struggle with Protean Scepticism, assuming now the form of heavenly philosophy, and again the grovelling shape of an earth-bound materialism; the delicate adjustment of old beliefs to new discoveries, the lifting of the entire habitation of the soul to higher levels amid the derision of onlookers, and the more intolerable anxiety lest our old home should go to pieces in the process. . . Who is sufficient for these things?"
Rev. MARCUS DODS, D.D.

"Though all the windes of doctrin were let loose to play upon the earth, so TRUTH be in the field, we do injuriously . . to misdoubt her strength. Let her and Falsehood grapple; who ever knew Truth put to the wors, in a free and open encounter?"—MILTON, Areopagitica.

Aucassin and Nicolette: a Love Story. Edited in Old French and Rendered in Modern English, with Introduction, Glossary, &c. By F. W. Bourdillon, M.A. fcp. 8vo. Hand-made paper. bound in buckram. Paul, 7/6

This beautiful early French story, to which so much attention has of late years been directed by Mr. W. PATER and others, has never before been published in England, nor has any English translation been hitherto made direct from the original. The object of this production of it has been, "to put the little story before modern readers in the same spirit in which it was originally written, as a thing of pure beauty and pleasure."

POETRY AND THE DRAMA.

"Poetry is the consolation of mortal men. They live cabined, cribbed, confined, in a narrow and trivial lot—in wants, pains, anxieties, and superstitions, in profligate politics, in personal animosities, in mean employments—and victims of these; and the nobler powers untried, unknown. A poet comes, who lifts the veil; gives them glimpses of the laws of the universe; shows them the circumstance as illusion; shows that nature is only a language to express the laws, which are grand and beautiful, and lets them, by his songs, into some of the realities."—EMERSON.

Scott's Poetical Works: edited, with a careful revision of the Text, by Wm. J. Rolfe, LL.D. Illus. Super-roy. 8vo. (Boston), Ticknor, 42/-

It appears from Dr. Rolfe's notes that Scott's poetry has suffered from the neglect of former editors—Lockhart not excepted—and still more from his printers. "The Lady of the Lake" has not been printed correctly for more than fifty years while errors in spelling and punctuation, which escaped the Author's notice in "Marmion," and other poems have been perpetuated to the present time. The illustrations in this edition are all new and by an American artist, who was specially commissioned to visit the scenes of the poems. It is also stated that the publishers have spent £10,000 in the production of the volume.

Hipkins and Gibb. Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare, and Unique. The Selection, Introduction, and Descriptive Notes by A. J. Hipkins; Illustrated by a series of Fifty Plates, in Colours, Drawn by Wm. Gibb. folio. Black, £7 7/-

This work which ranks with the finest of art productions—the illustrations being executed in the highest style of chromo-lithography—will in a short time prove one of the rarest of acquisitions, as only a thousand copies have been produced. A still greater prize will be the FIFTEEN GUINEA Artist's proof copies, of which only fifty copies have been produced. These are already disposed of, No. 50 having been secured for the Royal Library at Windsor.

In the descriptive notes which accompany the plates, the reader may learn, what is also evident from the illustrations, that our modern Musical Instruments, in their beauty of form, may be traced far backward into Antiquity. The Rebec of the Saracens was the near ancestor of the most perfect musical instrument yet imagined, the Cremona Violin. Our Concertinas, Harmoniums, and American Organs are directly derived from the antique Chinese Chêng. Burmah touches hands at the same time with ancient Egypt and modern Calabria; and to Italy, as Dante tells us, travelled the Celtic Harp, so peculiar in its design and scheme of stringing, to meet the Eastern Psaltery, which at last became the Spinet, as the twin Dulcimer became the Pianoforte. And although it is a far cry from the Scotch to the Syrian Highlands, the Bagpipe scale of the former only repeats a Lute scale of the latter.

NORTHERN SKY: Stars visible from Latitude of the British Isles, [Canada, Japan, &c.] 2/-

SOUTHERN SKY: Stars visible from about 35° S. [latitude of Melbourne, Sydney and Adelaide, Auckland, Buenos Ayres, &c.] 2/6

This novel Planisphere consists of a circular disc on which the principal stars visible from the respective latitudes are clearly indicated in white on a dark ground. By means of an exceedingly simple arrangement the disc may be made to revolve in such a way as to show only those stars visible at any given time. In addition to this may be shewn the varying time of sunrise and sunset during the whole year.

"As for farming, its putting money into your pockets wi' your right hand and fetching it out wi' your left. As far as I can see, it's raising victual for other folks, and just getting a mouthful for yourself and your children as you go along. . . . It's more than flesh and blood 'ull bear sometimes, to be toiling and striving, and up early and down late, and hardly sleeping a wink when you lie down for thinking as the cheese may swell, or the cows may slip their calf, or the wheat may grow green again i' the sheaf—and after all, at th' end of the year, its like as if you'd been cooking a feast and had got the smell of it for your pains."

NOVELS AND WORKS OF FICTION.

"The most influential books, and the truest in their influence, are works of fiction . . . . they repeat, they clarify the lessons of life; they disengage us from ourselves, they constrain us to the acquaintance of others; and they show us the web of experience, not as we see it for ourselves, but with a singular change—that monstrous, consuming EGO of ours being, for the nonce, struck out."—R. L. STEVENSON.

BOOKS FOR PRESENTS AND PRIZES TO YOUNG PEOPLE

"If I were to pray for a taste which should stand me in stead under every variety of circumstances, and be a source of happiness and cheerfulness through life, and a shield against its ills, however things might go amiss, and the world frown upon me, it would be a taste for Reading. Give a man this taste and the means of gratifying it, and you can hardly fail of making a happy man. You place him in contact with the best society in every period of history—with the wisest, the wittiest, with the tenderest, the bravest, and the purest characters who have adorned humanity."—SIR JOHN F. RECENT COLONIAL PUBLICATIONS.

AND BOOKS RELATING TO THE BRITISH COLONIES.

I have travelled through lands where patriotism is not a sentiment to be laughed at . . . where I never met a hungry man or saw a discontented face; where in the softest and sweetest air, and in an unexhausted soil, the fable of Midas is reversed; food does not turn to gold, but the gold with which the earth is teeming converts itself into farms and vineyards, into flocks and herds, into crops of wild luxuriance, into cities whose recent origin is concealed and compensated by trees and flowers—where children grow who seem once more to understand what was meant by "Merry England." Amidst the uncertainties which are gathering around us at home—a future so obscure that the wisest men will least venture a conjecture what that future will be, it is something to have seen with our own eyes that there are other Englands besides the old one, where the race is thriving with all its characteristics. . . . Let Fate do its worst, the family of Oceana is still growing, and will have a sovereign voice in the coming fortunes of mankind.
FROUDE.

"The four volumes before us represent the work of a lifetime—work not done only for pecuniary gain, but as a labour of love. Estimating it from the lowest point of view—that of bulk—it is a great achievement, for the three octavo volumes consist of no less than 1625 pages, exclusive of the index, and the fourth volume (quarto) of 45 pages, with a map. But, regarding it from the point of view of its worth as a work of reference, as a history of a race which is surely passing away, and of which little has hitherto been known, the achievement is far greater, and not to be easily estimated. . . . Many books and pamphlets have from time to time been written concerning the habits and customs of the blacks, together with many—more or less fragmentary—vocabularies of their languages. But upon none of these have the authors been able to bring to bear the careful research and intelligent personal observation plainly to be seen in the work of Mr. Curr."—The Argus.

Lovell (John) Gazetteer and History of the Dominion, to be issued during 1887-89. Montreal.

This work has been undertaken by Mr. Lovell in the hope that his fellow-countrymen will favour him with enough encouragement to insure him against the risk of loss which he would otherwise incur. It is estimated that the cost will amount to between forty and fifty thousand pounds. It is a truly national work and a place should be found for it in every public and Colonial library in the world. It will be encyclopædic in the range of its subjects and their fullness of treatment. Every county, district, parish, city, town or village in the "Dominion" every natural feature, island, lake or river, every point of interest for scenery or historic association, the date of settlement of every place, the nationality and character of the settlers; the causes that stimulated or retarded their progress; the population, industries, manufactures, business features, banks, churches, convents, colleges, schools, charities, hotels, printing offices, newspapers, municipal organizations, &c. will be fully and accurately described. The scenery as well as public buildings will be thoroughly illustrated. Each of the eight provinces will be treated in a separate volume; and a ninth will contain maps.

Subscriptions for the nine vols. 75 dollars (£16), thirty being payable on delivery of the fourth, and forty-five on delivery of the ninth.

The Torch

And Colonial Book Circular.

No. 3. LONDON, MARCH, 1888. VOL. I.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF AUSTRALASIA.

In fulfilment of the promise, made in the first number of our Circular, to give from time to time portions of this work, I begin with that section relating to the History of Australian Colonization, and especially of NEW SOUTH WALES, this being the centenary of its foundation.

The plan of the arrangement of the whole Bibliography is somewhat as follows:—Cyclopædias and Collections; Voyages (16th to 19th Century); Geography and Exploration; The Aborigines, with Lists of Ethnological and Philological Publications; Natural History, Flora and Fauna, including Papers in Transactions of Societies; Agricultural and Industrial Resources; History, Description and Statistics of the several Colonies; with Classified Lists of Local Publications:—Politics, and Economics (including Transportation, Emigration, Land, Trade, Commerce, Public Works, Finance, Education, &c.), Legal, Technical, Medical, Scholastic, and Religious; Poetry, Fiction, and Criticism; Almanacs, Magazines, Newspapers, &c.; and a comprehensive Index of Authors. The titles, except where otherwise stated, are generally taken from copies in my own possession.

E. A. P.

PROPOSALS MADE TO THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO COLONIZE THE SOUTHERN CONTINENT, IN THE SIXTEENTH AND SEVENTEENTH CENTURIES.

Early in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, the subject of Colonies was discussed in England, and papers were laid before Her Majesty on the policy and advantages likely to accrue to her kingdom and people from new discoveries of lands not already taken possession of by the Portuguese, Spaniards or French, and especially of those countries lying beyond the equinoctial.* These countries though only to be reached by crossing the torrid zone, were believed to possess a climate like to their own. A later project in Secretary Walsingham's handwriting, for establishing a Company to trade beyond the Equinoctial line —Drake to be Governor for life—still exists in the Record Office. This was prepared in 1580, just after Drake's return home from his voyage round the world.

The Terra Australis was known to reach from the South towards and beyond the Tropic of Capricorn, nearly to the equator, while its coast line was supposed to extend all round the South Pole. It is thus delineated on old globes and mappemondes (1530-66) and it is so described in an Introduction to the account of Frobisher's First Voyage (1578); those parts best known lying over against Capo d'Buona Speranza, [i.e. Western Australia] whither the Portuguese in their voyages to India had been driven out of their direct course by storms.

The only English Colonies settled or attempted in the reigns of Elizabeth and her successor were those in North America and Guiana.

In the meantime, Pedro Fernandez de Quiros who had discovered what he believed to be portions of the Terra Australis in the South Sea [i.e. Santa Cruz and the New Hebrides] was petitioning Philip the Third of Spain to Colonize that part lest it should be taken possession of by the English. All the known Memorials of Quiros have been recently published (Madrid, 1877-82) together with the narratives of his two voyages (1595 and 1606), preceded by that of Mendaña to the Solomon Islands (1567).† One of Quiros' Memorials falling into the hands of Gresley, Secretary to the English Embassy at the Spanish Court, was by him forwarded to his government (1610).‡

Raleigh's First Colony in North America (1587) had not succeeded; but other Settlements in Virginia and New England despite Spanish protests were now being founded with some measure of success. Sir James Lancaster, who had made voyages to the

* "The discoverie, traffique, and enioyenge for the Queens Majestie and her subiectes of all or anie landes, islandes and countries southewards beyonde the æquinoctial, or when the Pole Antartik hathe anie elevation above the Horison, and which landes, islandes and countries be not alredie possessed or subdued by or to the vse of anie Christian Prince in Europe as by the charts and descriptions shall appere."——LANDSDOWNE MS., C. folio. 142-146.

This Manuscript, which is endorsed by Lord Burleigh: A Discovery of Lands beyond the Equinoctial, 1573, has been printed after the Introduction to the Hakluyt Society's edition of FROBISHER'S VOYAGES, London, 1867, pp. 4-8.

† The Bibliography of MENDAÑA'S and QUIROS', and of other proposals to Colonize the Southern parts of the world on behalf of Spain, will appear in the Section "VOYAGES." The works of Bishop Hall, Jacques Sadeur [Gabriel Foigny] &c., will be described among "IMAGINARY VOYAGES."

‡ An English translation was printed in London, 1617; reprinted [1723?]. To his discovery Quiros had given the name Austrialia del Espiritu Santo, in honour of Philip the Third, as head of the House of Austria, and because formal possession of it had been taken upon his Majesty's birthday, the Festival of the Holy Spirit. In printing a corrected English translation, Purchas in His Pilgrimes (IV. p. 1423), called it AUSTRALIA INCOGNITA, using that name probably for the first time (1625).

East Indies, frequently proposed to have a ship sent through the Strait of Magellan to the Solomon Islands; but without result. James the First was not favourable to colonies.

In the last year of his reign, however, an eminent London merchant—probably the most enterprising English merchant of his time—Sir William Courteen, desiring to extend his trade to the Terra Australis, petitioned the King for the privilege of erecting Colonies therein. Sir William, who was joint-owner of more than twenty ships of burden, employing four or five thousand seamen, already carried on an extensive trade on his own account to Portugal, Spain, Guinea, and the West Indies. The following is a copy of his petition, now printed for the first time :—

To the Kings most Excellent Matie

The humble peticon of Sr William Courten Kn^t

Most humbly sheweth vnto your Matie

That all the lands in ye South parts of ye world called Terra Australis incognita extending Eastwards & Westwards from ye Straights of Le Maire together with all ye adjacente Islands, &c., are yet undiscovered or being discovered are not yet traded unto by any of your Maties subjects. And your petitioner being very willing att his owne charges which wilbe very greate, to indeavour ye discovery thereof & settle Collonies and a plantation there which he hopeth will tend to ye glory of God, ye reducing of Infidells to Christianity, ye honour of your Matie ye inlargem^t of your Mat^s Territories and Dominions, ye increase of your Maties Customes & revenue & ye Navigation and imployment of your Maties subjects.

Your pet^r therefore humbly desireth y^r Matie to bee pleased to grante to him his heires & assignes all ye said lands islands & Territories with power to discover ye same to erecte Colonies & a plantation there & Courts of Justice officers and Ministers for ye setling and governinge of ye said Colonies and plantations & those which are or shall Inhabit or be there & power to administer Justice and to execute Marshall law by land and sea and for your pet^r and those whome hee shall imploy to defend themselves and offend such others as shall oppugne or hinder the said discovery or plantation of your pet^rs shippes in going or returning. And with such other grantes and landes and privileges as in Cases of discovery or setlinge of Colonies or plantations is usuall or shall be fitt. And to directe your Maties Attorney generall to prepare a grante accordingly fitt for your Maties Royal Signature. And your pet^r (as in duty bound) shall ever pray for your Maties long and happie raigne.

Having lent large sums of money to the King, Sir William Courteen had some claim upon His Majesty's consideration. But it does not appear that "All ye said islands and territories" were granted to him. He appears to have been satisfied with a bad title to the island of Barbados, where he sent (1626) fifty settlers, who built a fort (1627) and remained there till it was taken from them (1628). He then sent eighty men to the island and re-took it in the name of the Earl of Pembroke. Sir William died in 1636. His son's claim to the title was not deemed a good one, and was disallowed in 1660.

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

The geographers of the early part of the eighteenth century continued to describe the Terra Australis after the manner of their predecessors, adding from time to time the names given to new discoveries, chiefly those of the Dutch. Occasionally the philosophers discussed the subject. I have before me :—

DISSERTATIO PHYSICA de TERRA AUSTRALI, quam inclvtæ Facvltatis Philosophicæ consensv ervditorvm disqvisitioni svbiicit d. iv. Aprilis MDCCXVI. M. JOHANNES AVGVSTVS RIVINVS, LIPS. Respondente FRIDERICO WILELMO PREVSERO, Nebra Thuring. s. s. Theol. Stvd. Lipsiae. small 4to. pp. 24.

The next item has relation to one of the numerous projects of the time of George the First. As I know of one copy only of the original—in the Bibliothèque Nationale, Paris—I give it in full in the original spelling. In the light of present knowledge this document is of great interest: the conjecture as to the Southern Country's richness in the precious metals was probably due to the projector's imagination. The reader will note also the name "NEW WALES," fifty years before Cook's discovery of New South Wales.

Captain John Welbe's

PROPOSALS

FOR

Establishing a Company by the name of the London Adventurers for carrying on a Trade to (and settling Colonies in) Terra Australis, and Working and Improving the Gold and Silver Mines which there abound.

WHEREAS 'tis well known that there is no nation that do Trade from the South Seas to the East Indies but the Spaniards, whose India trade is from Aca-pulco (on the Coast of Mexico, in the South Seas) to the Philippine Islands in the East Indies, which ships, in going, keep always in the North East Trade Wind; and in coming back they run to 40 or 45 Degrees North, to meet with a Westerly Wind, to run them to the Eastward, for which Reason those Southern parts are not yet fully discover'd, nor any part of them settled by any European whatsoever, they lying out of the way of all Trading Ships.

If we look back and trace the Course of those European Ships Voyages that have sailed round the Globe, it may be easily seen how far they were from making any Discoveries in those Southern Parts, the Course of their Voyages not giving them any Opportunity for so doing.

Magellanus, the Discoverer of the Sereights, called after his Name, the first that sail'd West from the South Seas to the East Indies, sailed along the Coasts of Peru and Mexico, till he came to California, and thence took his Departure for India, keeping in the North East Trade Wind.

Sir Francis Drake said to be the first Commander that sail'd round the Globe (Magellanus being kill'd by the Indians at Mindano Island) kept the Coast of Peru and Mexico on board, and sail'd West for India, in the North East Trade Wind.

Sir Thomas Cavendish the same.

Captain Swann, one of the Buccaneers of America, with whom Captain Dampier sail'd the first time round the Globe, kept in the North-East Trade Wind from California to India, and was kill'd at Mindano, as Magellanus was.

Captain Rogers in the Duke and Dutchess, with the Aca-pulco Ship, kept likewise in the North-East Trade Wind.

It is here to be observ'd that from the Coast of Peru West, to the East Indies, is upwards of 2,500 Leagues, which to the Southward of the Line is undiscover'd to any European, (Captain Welbe excepted) who, in the course of his Voyage round the World with Captain Dampier, in the Year 1703, 1704, 1705, and 1706, having many extraordinary Opportunities of satisfying and informing himself what Discoveries had been made, by Order of the Viceroys of Peru, for 150 Years past: Was thereby well assured, that the islands, named (by the said Captain Welbe) St. George's Islands and New Wales, and some other Islands thereabouts, which abound with Mines of Gold and Silver, belong to no European Prince or State, and are therefore free for the first Discoverer to take Possession of, which Mines the Undertaker doubts not to prove, will enrich the British Nation upwards of 50,000,000 Sterling, if taken Possession of, and Colonies settled, which is not half what the Kingdom of Peru has produc'd to the Spaniards since their first Settlement there, under Francisco Pizaro, the first Viceroy.

It is therefore propos'd that a Joint Stock, not exceeding 2,500,000 be raised to fit out Ships, and settle Colonies forthwith, that the Improvement and Advantages of such Valuable Discoveries may not be lost. And in order thereto, the said Captain Welbe is now ready to grant Permits to such Persons who are willing to be Proprietors and Adventurers in this said Undertaking. On Grant of which Permits, the Proprietors are to pay in 1s. on every Share, viz., 10*s.* for 1,000*l.* to enable the Undertaker to apply for, and obtain a Patent, and defray other charges; and no more is to be paid in until at a General Meeting of, and by the Proprietors, Directors, and Treasurers be chosen; and then no more on each Share than what the Directors, at such Meeting, shall agree on, and find necessary for carrying on effectually so valuable and advantagious a Trade.

N.B.—The proposer has no Sinister Ends, nor Self-Interest, In View, and expects no Pay, nor any Reward, but such Part of the neat Produce of Profits, as the Directors themselves shall think fit, and agree, to allow him.

Among the SLOAN MSS. (British Museum) is an earlier proposal by Capt. Welbe to the British Government for a full discovery of the Terra Australis. But none of his proposals or his petitions appear to have had any result. His long-waiting, however, brought him to distress and a debtors' prison. Two years later a little volume (in two parts)—advising the settlement of colonies in South Africa and South Australia—was published in Amsterdam, bearing these titles :—

AANMERKINGEN ; Betreffende de Kust der KAFFERS, En het Landt van PIETER NUYTS : Ten opzigte van de nuttigheit, die de OOSTINDISCHE COMPAGNIE, van dezelve voor haaren-Koophandel zoude konnen trekken [emblem, with motto, "Terae dum Prosim"] 18mo, pp. 114. t'AMSTERDAM, By R. en G. WETSTEIN, 1718.

TWEEDE AANMERKINGEN ; Betreffende de Kust der KAFFERS, en het Landt van PIETER NUYTS : Dienende tot opheldering der Voorstellingen in de eerste gedaan, ten nutte van de OOSTINDISCHE COMPAGNIE [emblem] 18mo, pp. 116.
t'Amsterdam, By R. en G. Wetstein, 1718.

Coincidently the work was issued in French :—

MEMOIRE sur le Pais des Cafres, et la Terre de Nuyts. Par raport à utilité que la Compagnie des Indes Orientales en pourroit retirer pour son Commerce. 18mo, pp. 83. Amsterdam. 1718.

SECOND MEMOIRE sur le Pais des Cafres, et La Terre de Nuyts, Servant d'eclaircissement aux propositions faites dans le premier, pour l'utilite de la Compagnie des Indes Orientales, 18mo. pp. 77.
Amsterdam. 1718.

The first Memoir was originally addressed by "Jean Pierre Purry" "A Batavia, le 20, de Mai, 1717," to "S. E. Mons Christophel van Swol, Gouverneur Generale des Indes Orientales des Pais Bas." It is here printed in the author's mother tongue, and addressed to Messeigneurs les Deputez a l'Assemblée des Dix—Sept., Representant la Compagnie Generalé des Indes Orientales, des Pais Bas "A Amsterdam ce 23 Juillet 1718," to whom the Second Memoir was also addressed, 1 September, 1718.

In the British Museum there are two other tracts by the same Author :—

I. MEMORIAL OF JEAN PIERRE PURRY of Neuchatel in Behalf of the Colonization of South Carolina. 4to. pp. 12. London. 18th July, 1724.

[Reprinted in Carroll's Historical Collections, Vol. II., 1836 ; in Force's Tracts, Vol. II., 1836 ; and separately in 4to, Augusta, Georgia. 1880.]

II. A METHOD FOR DETERMINING THE BEST CLIMATE OF THE EARTH, on a Principle to which all Geographers and Historians have been hitherto Strangers. In a Memorial presented to the Governors of the East India Company in Holland, for which the Author was obliged to leave that Country. By JOHN PETER PURRY. Translated from the French. 12mo. pp. 4, 60. London. 1744.

Collation : Title, Advertisement [Sketch of Author's Life], Address to my Lords the Deputies to the Assembly of Seventeen Representatives of the General Company of the East Indies of the Low Countries, Method, &c.

The "Advertisement" is as follows :—

JOHN PETER PURRY, the Author of the following Memorial, was born at Neufchatel in Switzerland, about the year LXX of the last century, who, having engaged for some time in the wine trade, and meeting with misfortunes in it, contracted himself to the Chamber of Amsterdam for the East Indies in Batavia about the beginning of 1713 ; where by his Plantations and by being Reader to the Reform'd Church in that City, having pretty well repair'd his Fortune, in the Year 1717, he presented to the Governor General of the East India Company, a proposal for settling a Colony in the Land of NIGHTS, not far from the Isle of JAVA, which not having the good Fortune to be Approv'd of, he obtained leave to return to Europe.

In doubling the Cape of Good Hope, he was so taken with the admirable Colonies he found there, that he was more and more confirm'd in the Thought of immortalizing his Name with some settlement in the 33rd Degree, either of Northern or Southern Latitude. Arriving at Amsterdam in 1718, he presented there in FRENCH the Memorial we now give the Reader in English, to the Lords the Directors of the Dutch East India Company, who determine all matters relating to it. Neither this Memorial, nor another which accompanied it, were well receiv'd, insomuch that a Friend of his told him privately he had best get out of the Way, for that some Things had been observed in both Papers which ought not to be made public. He took the advice, and went into France ; from whence he made a Tour into his own Country. But returning to Paris in that fatal year 1720, he lost in the Mississippi Company, what he had got in the East Indies. Here his former scheme reviv'd and having modell'd it to the French settlements, he presented it to some of the Prime Ministers, who referr'd it to the Royal Academy of Sciences. Mons. Fontenelle return'd this cautious Answer, that they could not pass a Judgment on a Country which they had never seen, and that therefore it would not be advisable to make expensive settlements in Places they were unacquainted with. This was all the Determination that could be got from him. The Journal des Scavans, however, took notice of the Proposal, and gave a fair Representation of it. Rejected a Second Time, Mr. Purry came into England, and printed his Proposal here for establishing a Colony on the English coast of America, Southward enough for his favourite Degree. It was presented to the Duke of New Castle as he was walking with the King at Kensington in 1721. But neither here could his Scheme boast of the expected Approbation. I remember however that Sir Isaac Newton, to whom I communicated it, agreed in general to the principles of it, with a Proviso that the Nature of each Country and Soil should be first examin'd before settlements were attempted.

But about this time Georgia beginning to be talk'd of, Mr. Purry at the request of some Merchants, who wanted to know the condition of that Country, went thither. At his Arrival, he first took a general Survey of it, then pass'd into Switzerland, and brought from thence enough of his Countrymen to establish a small Colony, at the extremity of Carolina, just upon the River which divides it from Georgia, where he died about ten years since, in an advanced age : having first built a Town as a Monument to himself, which still bears the name of Purisburg.

Of this period is a tract in the British Museum :—

TERRA AUSTRALIS INCOGNITA POSTERITATI RELICTA VESTIGIIS IX. Monstratis. 8pp. folio. Helmstadii. 1741.

Enterprise at home and abroad was too stagnant at this time for the encouragement or support of Colonial possessions. But the learned and accomplished M. de Maupertius having accepted an invitation from Frederic the Great to settle in Berlin, he there addressed his Letter to the King of Prussia on the Progress of the Sciences. Among the sciences whose improvement stood in need of the support of a sovereign were foreign discoveries, and first of all, that of the Terra Australis.

In the Terra Australis, the eminent savant believed there would be found species different from what are contained in any other parts of the world, for they never could have gone out of their own continent. Near the same were islands in which "navigators assure us they have seen savages, men covered with hair, having tails; a middle species, between a monkey and a man. I would rather," he writes, "have an hour's conversation with one of these than with the greatest wit in Europe."—See English translation in Appendix to The Schemer; or, Universal Satirist, by that great philosopher Helter van Scelter, London, 1763, pp. 249 et seq.

Maupertius' suggestion was not to be lost. It was taken up by an able advocate, Charles De Brosses, President of the Parliament of Dijon, who collected in two quarto volumes (Paris, 1756) the accounts of all the Voyages which had been made to Terres Australes. De Brosses divided his work into three sections, viz.: AUSTRAL-ASIA, POLYNESIA, and MAGELLANICA.

The volumes of De Brosses were preceded and followed by others dealing with the subject. See especially:—

HARRIS'S VOYAGES. Edited by Dr. Campbell (2 vols.) Vol. II. sect. 20. London. 1744.

TERRA AUSTRALIS; or, A History of the Southern Continent. [Book XIV., Chap. XII., of UNIVERSAL HISTORY] being Vol. XI. of MODERN HISTORY, pp. 273-553. London. 1759.

The writer (probably Harris's editor) suggested that the AFRICAN COMPANY should be invested with the exclusive right of making discoveries and settlements in the Southern Continent. If neither the African nor the East India Companies should think it expedient or consistent with their interests to establish such settlements, he thought the duty should then devolve upon the South Sea Company, who by their charter had the power to do so.

An English translation of De Brosses, with additions, was printed in three volumes, 8vo. (Edinburgh, 1766-68). At the end of the third volume (pp. 715-745) the editor, John Callander, added a chapter:—

"Of the Method of Forming Colonies in the Terra Australis, and the Advantages that may be expected to result to Great Britain from Such Establishments in that Hemisphere."

The writer, following De Brosses, advises the Settlement of New Britain, in Australasia, as being in the most advantageous situation with respect to the Countries where commerce was already established. "Another advantage," he adds, "that distinguishes it, is the climate, as lying not far from the Equator, where (according to Dampier) we may always expect to find more materials for commerce, than in higher latitudes; Van Diemen's Land and New Zealand lie far to the South and are little known. The coasts of New Holland are of very difficult access, and the parts that lie next the South Sea, absolutely naked and barren. Carpentaria labours under the same disadvantage. None of these places ever appear fit for the first attempts, though they may be settled afterwards, and perhaps to advantage. . . . Both Roggewein and Dampier agree in giving preference to New Britain. De Brosses (Terres Australes, tome 2, p. 385) thinks there is no place so proper as this to fix on. He proposes to settle it by sending three ships from Pondicherry" (pp. 742-43).

From this time forward voyages were made for the sake of science rather than plunder. In 1764-68 three expeditions—including vessels under the command of Byron, Wallis, Carteret, and Cook—were sent to the South Seas under the patronage of King George the Third. Alexander Dalrymple, who had been in the East India Company's Service, and had returned home to advocate Southern Discoveries, hoped to have received the command of the Expedition sent out under Cook the object of which was primarily to observe the transit of Venus in the Island of Tahiti. He published

AN ACCOUNT OF THE DISCOVERIES made in the South Pacifick Ocean previous to 1764. Part I. 8vo. pp. xxxi. 103 with charts. London. 1767.

Not being chosen—a Naval Officer being indispensable—Dalrymple subsequently continued his researches and produced:—

HISTORICAL COLLECTION of the Several Voyages and Discoveries in the SOUTH PACIFIC OCEAN. With maps. 2 vols. 4to. London. 1770-71.

which work was translated into French and German. To the three Divisions of De Brosses, Dalrymple proposed to add a fourth—AUSTRALIA, thus reviving a name used before, but which had lapsed for nearly a century.

The advantages to that Power which should secure a footing in the Southern part of the world foretold by Quiros—long since forgotten, but more recently revived by De Brosses and Dalrymple—were made manifest upon Cook's return. He had discovered the insularity of New Zealand and sailed all along the East Coast of New Holland, which he named NEW SOUTH WALES.* These advantages which had now been secured for Great Britain were emphasized in:—

POLITICAL ESSAYS concerning the Present State of the British Empire. 4to. London, 1772. pp. 3, 463, 464.

This may be considered the last word of the pre-colonial advocates of Australian Colonization, for in 1776 the Declaration of Independence by the Thirteen Colonies of North America stopped the transportation of English Criminals there. And "loyal" Colonists were seeking new settlements. Some removed to Canada and Nova Scotia. Others thought of emigrating to the Southern Continent. James Maria Mitra, of Frome, proposed to the Home Government that New South Wales should be set apart for their reception, where they might repair their broken fortunes (Aug. 1783). †

Capt. Sir George Yonge, R.N., submitted another plan (Jan. 1785) which was printed:—

The FOLLOWING is a ROUGH OUTLINE of the Many Advantages that may result to this Nation, from a SETTLEMENT made on the COAST OF NEW SOUTH WALES. folio. pp. 4. [London. 1785.]

All these schemes were duly entertained, and resulted in the determination on the part of the Government to utilize New South Wales as a Penal Settlement, a decision arrived at during 1786. The subject was debated in and out of Parliament. John Howard considered the "BOTANY BAY Scheme" as "expensive, dangerous, and destructive." Others advised the establishment of Penal Colonies nearer home or in smaller islands in mid-ocean, such as that of Tristan d'Acunha. With these writers, the Bibliography of New South Wales and the Australian Colonies begins.

DALRYMPLE. A Serious Admonition to the Publick on the Intended Thief-Colony at Botany Bay. [By Alex. Dalrymple, Hydrographer to the Admiralty.] 8vo. pp. 52. London. 1786.

Dalrymple recommended the Island of Tristan d'Acunha as more suitable for a Penal Colony than Botany Bay. The pamphlet (written in September and October, 1786) includes a letter (dated July, 1785) addressed by the Author to the Directors of East India Company, advising them against a project for settling Norfolk Island, which was then within the limits of the Company's Charter.

This is merely a compilation from preceding works, especially those of Phillip and Tench. For later editions, with Life of Barrington, see 1802.

A NEW AND CORRECT HISTORY OF NEW HOLLAND; with a Description of that Part of It called Botany Bay, and Particularly Port Jackson, where the Convicts from this Country are Sent, and the British Settlement formed. Together with An Account of the Manners and Customs of the Inhabitants, and also of the Climate and Soil of that Country. Collected from Authentic Authors and Original Papers. By a Society of Gentlemen. 18mo.
pp. 72 and frontispiece. Glasgow. 1796.

PALMER. A Narrative of the Sufferings of T. F. Palmer and W. Skirving during a Voyage to New South Wales, 1794, on board the "Surprise" Transport. By the Rev. Thomas Fyshe Palmer, late of Queen's College, Cambridge. 8vo.
pp. 74. Cambridge. 1797.

SECOND EDITION. With Copy of Letters to Gov. Hunter, dated Oct. 14, 1795. 8vo.
pp. 79. Cambridge. 1797.

Messrs. Palmer and Skirving, with Thomas Muir, were transported for sedition. A conspiracy to seize the ship was said to have been discovered on the voyage, and they were charged with having been the chief instigators in the plot, unjustly. Disappointed in their appeal for an investigation into all the circumstances, their statements were published in this Pamphlet. Muir afterwards escaped from Sydney to America. See below.

PALMER. [Letter from Thomas Fyshe Palmer] Sydney, New South Wales. June 13, 1795. Folio. one page. [No place or date.]

MUIR. Narrative of his Sufferings in N. S. Wales, Escape to America, Travels to the Spanish Settlements, Re-capture, &c., and Death. [In French.]
Paris, about 1798 (?).

I have lost title of copy which passed through my hands several years ago.—E. A. P.

The Life of Thomas Muir.... who was Tried for Sedition.... and Sentenced to Transportation for Fourteen Years; with a Full Report of his Trial. By Peter Mackenzie.
8vo. pp. xliv. 64, Glasgow, 1837.

LISTS OF CONVICTS and the Ships by which they arrived were at one time in existence in the Colony. It is doubtful if they exist now. PHILLIP'S "Voyage" gives a long list of those who were sent out in the "first fleet," but as a large number died before leaving England and during the voyage, it cannot be called a list of "Arrivals."

COLLINS. An Account of the English Colony in New South Wales: With Remarks on the Dispositions, Customs, Manners, &c., of the Native Inhabitants, with some Particulars of New Zealand from the MSS. of Lieut.-Gov. King. By David Collins, Esq., late Judge Advocate and Secretary of the Colony. Illust. by engravings. 4to. pp. xx. xxxviii. 619, two charts, and 22 plates. Lond. 1798.

A few copies of this edition were printed on fine paper.—See Vol. II., 1802, p. 97.

For abridged edition, see under 1804. p. 97.

Of the plates eleven are views of Sydney Cove, and other Settlements at Parramatta, &c. These were engraved after water-colour drawings made by Edward Dayes from a series of rough sketches brought home from the Colony. Dayes' drawings are now in the possession of Mr. William Silver, York Gate, Regent's Park, London.

BARRINGTON. A Sequel to Barrington's Voyage to New South Wales, comprising an Interesting Narrative of the Transactions and Behaviour of the Convicts; the Progress of the Colony, an Official Register of the Crimes, Trials, Sentences, and Executions that have Taken Place: Likewise Authentic Anecdotes of the most Distinguished Characters and Notorious Convicts. By the Celebrated George Barrington, Principal Superintendent of the Convicts.
8vo. pp. 116. London. 1800.

ANOTHER EDIT. 12mo. pp. viii. 94. Lond. 1801.

Not written by Barrington, see p. 97.

DEDICATED TO HIS MAJESTY.

BARRINGTON'S History of New South Wales, including Botany Bay, &c..... No. I. to be continued weekly. By George Barrington, officer of the Peace Paramatta ..... to be completed in twelve numbers, elegantly printed in Octavo, illustrated with elegant engravings of Views and Customs and subjects of Natural History, coloured from Nature. "The proprietors beg leave to assure the Public, that nothing can impede the regular Publication of the work, as the Manuscript has all arrived, and the plates are in great forwardness."

The work was duly completed, in 14 parts, with 20 coloured plates and engraved title, and issued in one volume :—

THE HISTORY OF NEW SOUTH WALES including Botany Bay, Port Jackson, Pamaratta, Sydney, and all its Dependencies ..... from its Foundation to the Present Time. By George Barrington..... 8vo. pp. [xlii.] 505. London. 1802.

Upon the conclusion of this work in parts, it was followed by a new edition in 12 parts, of :—

AN ACCOUNT of a Voyage to New South Wales, by George Barrington ..... to which is Prefixed a Detail of his Life, Trials, Speeches, &c., with two letters, dated Paramatta, Nov. 1793, and March 1802. 8vo.

pp. , portrait and 11 coloured plates. Lond. 1803.

Both volumes were re-issued in 1810: pages 465 to end (p. 476) of the "Voyage" are re-arranged, and include descriptions of several plates from the "History" to which readers had been referred for accounts in the first edition. There is also a preface to the latest edition of the "Voyage," and an Account of Barrington's death, and of the property he left in the Colony. To the new edition of the "History," a Supplement is added, bringing that work down to 1809, with a new index, making altogether 548 pages.

ANOTHER EDITION of Barrington's "Voyage," to which is added his Life and Trial. 8vo.

pp. iv. 184. New York. n.d.

These works were compiled in London. A comparison with the works of PHILLIP, COLLINS (1798), &c., will discover their true origin. In an anonymous work on New South Wales. [By G. Paterson, see 1811], the writer says (pp. 390-391) that "For a considerable time previous to his death, Barrington was in a state of insanity brought about by his serious and sorrowful reflections on his former career of iniquity..... He expressed a very considerable degree of displeasure, when he was in a state of sanity, at his name being affixed to a narrative, which he knew only by report, as being about to be published."

The celebrated "Prologue" said to have been spoken at a Theatrical performance in Sydney, 16th Jan., 1796, including the lines :—

"True patriots [We] for be it understood,
We left our country for our country's good," appearing in "Barrington's History," (edit. 1802 and 1810, pp. 151-153,) has often been attributed to him, but in all probability it was written by the compiler, or compilers, in London. The details of the performance even to the names of the principal performers, are evidently taken from COLLINS (edit. 1798, pp. 448-449), but as Collins says nothing about the "Prologue," it may be inferred that it was not written or recited in the Colony—more especially as it does not appear in the earlier "Barrington" of 1800. See page 96.

"Incomplete as the work is, its value as a contribution to the study and understanding of the Latin tongue is almost as great as if Professor Key had lived to complete it; since, from the time when he foresaw the improbability of his doing so, he adopted the plan of applying himself primarily to those words throughout the Alphabet which he considered to require novel or special treatment, leaving the less important portion to be added afterwards; and he himself states, in reference to the Dictionary, in the Preface to his book on 'Language,' published in 1874, that he had 'included therein nearly all those words in which he thought himself able to make some improvement.' Although therefore only part has been filled in, and can be regarded as complete or approximately so, the work may be taken to embody in a very large measure the results of a lifetime mainly devoted to the study of Latin."—Preface.

Spurgeon (C. H.) Metropolitan Tabernacle Pulpit Sermons Preached and Revised during 1887. Vol. XXXIII. 8vo. Passmore, 7/-

From a merely secular consideration this volume is probably unique in literature: it contains Mr. Spurgeon's 2000th Sermon! The most successful preacher on record, judged by immediate results, was Jonah: he preached one short sermon only, which was (according to Latimer) a "nipping," "pinching," and "biting" one! But Mr. Spurgeon has spoken Sunday after Sunday in the ears of a populace greater than that of Nineveh for more than a generation. Multitudes have gathered and continue to gather to listen to his message with as great interest as ever they did. Of a greater than Jonah, it is written that "He spoke as one having authority and not as the scribes." Here we have one who speaks with authority and who is one of the greatest of scribes. The titles only of Mr. Spurgeon's printed works would fill a page of this Catalogue. And they are not works of superficial or of ephemeral interest. The "Treasury of David" in eight volumes, would alone make the reputation of half a dozen ordinary theologians. Nor do Mr. Spurgeon's works burden the shelves of the second-hand booksellers like the dead Divinity of a past (?) age: they are pleasant reading; they are enlivened by illustrations and anecdote, and enriched by vast yet comprehensive and studious reading. Though they do not "cure colds, catarrhs, skin diseases" or any other bodily evils—as once advertised (through a printer's blunder) like somebody's pills—they circulate by hundreds of thousands of volumes; the Sermons by millions! In many languages and through numerous channels they find their way all over the world. The secret of Mr. Spurgeon's popularity is that he speaks "from the heart" and in a language "understanded of the people."

"The whole system of human reasoning in all its wonderful intricacy is built up from a few general principles, in themselves perfectly and necessarily obvious, just as the prose of Ruskin and the poetry of Browning are expressed in combinations of twenty-six letters. But as in this case, the theory of composing words is easy enough—and yet the art a mystery which only very few can ever attain in perfection—so the theory of conversation may be reduced to a small number of general observations; and yet the perfect practice of it is a mystery which defies analysis—one of the myriad manifestations of human genius which all can admire but no one can ever explain."

NOVELS AND WORKS OF FICTION.

"Speaking of novels, Faraday once said to my wife: 'I like the stirring ones, with plenty of life, plenty of action, and very little philosophy. Why, I can do the philosophy for myself; but I want the novelist to supply me with incident and change of scene, and to give me an interest which takes me out of my own immediate pursuits. It does a man good to get out of his daily pursuits and air his thoughts a little!"
—SIR FREDERICK POLLOCK'S Reminiscences.

RECENT COLONIAL PUBLICATIONS

AND BOOKS RELATING TO THE BRITISH COLONIES.

"It is indeed a thrilling thought for a man of the elder England to see what a home the newest hope of his people is. The heart swells, the pride of kinship rises, as he sees that it is his own folk which has done more than any other folk to replenish the earth and to subdue it. He is no Englishman at heart, he has no true feeling of the abiding tie of kindred, who deems that the glory and greatness of the child is other than part of the glory and greatness of the parent."—FREEMAN.

That part of the work relating to the British Colonies and Dependencies (forty in number) though very concise, occupies pp. 94 to 181. There is also a very important chapter on "Great Britain in 1887," occupying pp. 192 to 218. The work is not so much one of statistics, of figures and computations, it has these in abundance; but rather "a summary of constitutional facts and forms." The Editor has received valuable aid from the most competent authorities.

"Mr. Douglas Sladen's pretty little volume is doubly welcome, not only as the first poetical anthology of the 'youngest born of Britain's great dominions,' but for its pleasant introduction to the singers whose songs have made it up, and for a valuable study of Henry Kendall as a bush poet..... It is well that such poems as these [referred to or quoted] dealing more or less spontaneously with life and nature under unconventional conditions, should be made readily accessible—when, as Mr. Stedman has just told us, our present-day verse is too artificial. We must, therefore, hope that this interesting little volume may have the undoubted success it deserves."—H. T. MACKENZIE BELL, in The Academy.

"'Fernshawe' is the title of a collection of sketches in prose and verse originally published in Victoria, Australia. The writer, Mr. A. Patchett Martin, tells us in his preface that he was bred and educated in the colony of Victoria, and seems to think on that account that some apology is necessary for placing his work before the critics of the mother country. On the contrary, we welcome, and shall always welcome, so admirable a specimen of Colonial literary work. The volume is beautifully printed, ornamented, and bound, and it is interesting to find that all this was executed by Colonial hands. The poems, whether grave or gay, cannot fail to charm, so sweetly do they flow and so gracefully are they conceived. The prose essays, chiefly critical, are brightly written and worthy of a high place in English literature."—Morning Post.

The first part of the work compendiously refers to the occupation of New Zealand by Englishmen; to the mission undertaken by the "Apostle" Marsden; and to the Treaty of Waitangi, 1840. Mr. Rusden then refers to the labours of Bishop Selwyn to avert war and to the war at the Waitara which he vainly strove to prevent; to the good work done by Sir Donald McLean and his successful efforts to establish friendly relations with the tribes which adhered to the so-called Maori King; to the manner in which the lands of the Maoris have been acquired from some of them in the Middle Island and elsewhere; to the destruction of Te Whiti's peaceful village at Parihaka; to the operations of the Native Land Court; to the complaints of the Maoris thereupon, and their desire to retain control of a portion of their lands. Petitions to the Queen for maintenance of the rights guaranteed under the treaty of Waitangi, are also described with accounts of the deputation of certain Maori chiefs to the Colonial Office in 1882 as well as the more recent deputation of Tawhiao and others to England in 1884 and their reception.

"We search out dead men's words and works of dead men's hands."
—Empedocles on Etna.

In common with every other English Literary publication, we have to record our feelings of regret at the demise of Matthew Arnold. The present issue embodies our humble tribute to the memory of the great critic—"The Apostle of Culture, Sweetness, and Light." On pages 135 to 139 will be found a list of Mr. Arnold's Collected Works, accompanied by the beautifully engraved portrait which appeared two or three years ago in the English Illustrated Magazine, kindly lent to us by the publishers, Messrs. Macmillan & Co. The illustrative quotations in this number are all taken from Mr. Arnold's Writings.

THE GENESIS OF QUEENSLAND.*

This is one of the most interesting works on Australia which it has been our pleasure to meet with and to read. It is a book to which future historians will go for original information, for Mr. Russell introduces us to the pioneers of the Settlement, tells us of their daily life and experiences, not at second hand but as he saw it. The volume is full of incident from beginning to end, as might be anticipated from its title. We do not profess to review books, and must therefore content our readers with a single extract, having reference to Leichhardt—that enigma of the Australian Continent!

"The inactivity of tongue did not, I was soon delighted to find, extend to the teeth of my friends, as they threw off their ailments. Want of variety by no means cloyed their appetites: Beef, damper, tea—smoke! damper, beef, tea—smoke! tea, damper, beef—smoke! — just like the triple-bob ding-ding-dong-dong of village chimes—came our daily diet. Poor fellows! they had indeed to make up for lost time on Peak Downs. The mules had escaped from them there, I think; if so, no wonder that they couldn't look after them.

"One night the smell of roasting woke me: were they so hungry that they couldn't wait for breakfast? Where, and what can they be cooking? Unscrewing myself out of my blanket, I followed my nose, which led me to Leichhardt's small separate room. To my wonder and horror there he was, lying on his back with his shoulder on the edge of the bed, frizzling over the flame of a fat lamp, placed under it, i.e. the shoulder. His rheumatic torture must have been, indeed, intolerable to find relief by such a cautery. Yet Leichhardt declared it was the first alleviation of his distress that he had been able to devise. The prescription was an opiate for him, the sight of it robbed me of further sleep. In the end the party broke up, and again did Leichhardt return to Darling Downs—overland for another invasion of the northern region" (pp. 368-369).

"He told me that he did not expect to be out of sight less than two, perhaps three years. We parted in the hope of meeting again some day after his return from Swan River, to which the journey-plan he had laid down was to be by the heads of waters running to the northward until he reached those of streams running to the western coast.

"He and his party proceeded to Cecil Plains, and made a final exodus thence—but have never reached the terminus" (p. 369).

"It is not for me to withhold or wish to withdraw respect and admiration of Lüdwig Leichhardt as a brave man; one of great perseverance and high attainments; but, on the lower platform of fitness in all its varied forms for commanding that unreserved acquiescence and cheerful obedience of his fellow-labourers as their leader:—that unfeigned confidence, far above the low suspicion which a questionable, and the absence of a purely unselfish conduct in the petty but inevitable details of a day-by-day wearisome, plodding, toilsome, hunger-breeding march alone can generate:—that hearty co-operation in precautionary arrangements against native—particularly night—assaults—and last but not least, that cordial attachment to their captain in an exploit in which to each the setting of a sun doubled the danger; and to each the rising renewed the fresh day's lease of life—I refuse to lay my private tribute in addition to the public record and reward of his public service. I must try back to the homely expression of my unlettered but perfect bush-companion William Orton, that it might be 'done in half the time that he'll take about it: 'tis my belief if Dr. Leichhardt do it at all, 'twill be more by good luck than good management. I don't mean to be disrespectful; and don't mean that he can't and won't do it: he's a brave gentleman, I don't want to be told that: but how he'll get there in his way I can't guess, and don't like thinking about: he's no bushman, and I say again, sir, if you go, you'll be sorry for it.'

The records of the French Stage in the 18th century are of high and varied interest. The best dramatists of the period were no unworthy followers of Corneille, Molière, and Racine, for Comedy included among her votaries Regnard, Lesage, Destouches, Piron, Lachaussée, Gresset, Diderot, Sédaine, and Beaumarchais, while Tragedy was represented by Voltaire. Besides her writers, France during this period, possessed many players of the highest order, viz. Baron, Mlle. Lecouvreur, Quinault-Dufresne, Mlle. Dangeville, Mlle. Gassin, Mlle. Dumesnil, Mlle. Clairon, Lekain, Préville, Molé, Mlle. Contat, Fleury, and the greatest actor of modern times—Talma.

"Have forty and more years passed and proved the stockman's instinct at fault?" (p. 371).

We have much pleasure in announcing Oak-Bough and Wattle-Blossom, a volume of Stories and Sketches, chiefly of Australian life and character, by Mrs. Campbell-Praed, Douglas Sladen, Haddon Chambers, Edmund Stansfeld Rawson, Sebastian Oldmixon, and Mr. Patchett Martin, who is also editor of the Collection. Mr. Walter Scott will be the publisher.

Mr. GREVILLE'S Year Book of Australia for 1888 has, at last, reached us. It is a bulkier volume than any of its predecessors. In addition to the ordinary statistical information, which is very full, the present issue contains a Prize Essay "The Future Position of Australia among Nations," by Rev. H. T. Burgess of Burra. His conclusions are that "possessing a spacious territory, an excellent situation, an admirable climate, and magnificent material resources both in abundance and diversity,....political institutions unsurpassed anywhere, and a civilization of the highest type, the people of Australia will always be able to hold their own." And that "this Confederated Dominion must become Queen of the Southern Hemisphere." Another article of importance at the present moment is one on the "Financial Position of Australasia," accompanied by a Table of "Public Debts." We are pleased to note a large increase in the advertising sections, and hope the editor will have sufficient encouragement in this way to sustain him in his arduous enterprise.

A "Centenary edition" of Mr. Douglas Sladen's Collection of Australian Ballads and Rhymes has recently been issued by Mr. Walter Scott. It is printed in larger type, with a new Introduction and a Bibliography. It forms a handsome crown octavo volume and is issued at the low price of 3*s.* 6*d.* The issue of Messrs. Griffith and Farran's Collection of Australian poetry by the same editor is deferred.

We must not omit to call attention to Mr. HAYTER'S Victorian Year-Book for 1886-7. This is the 14th issue, and makes a volume of nearly one thousand pages! Victoria has for a long period held the leading position in point of progress of all our Southern Colonies, and during the whole period of her history the public have been well provided with works of reference. We have before us KERR'S Melbourne Almanac for 1842, a volume of 384 pages, and ARCHER'S Statistical Register of Victoria for 1855, of 450 pages. These were, we believe, the forerunners of Mr. HAYTER'S Notes, 1873, and the Year Books from 1874 onward.

PUGH'S Queensland Almanac for 1888 is accompanied by a Directory of the Capital and of the County Towns; by Lists of Officials in the Government Departments, Port and Harbour, Coast and Sailing Directions, and by two large maps of the Colony and a street map of Brisbane.

OCEAN PENNY POSTAGE.

By way of extension of the home system, an "ocean penny postage" has been frequently suggested. . . . Notwithstanding the benefits of a cheap and uniform rate of postage, the Colonists themselves have not shown much disposition to progress with the times, or imitate the example of the Mother country. In 1845 a proposition was made in the N.S.W. legislature by Dr. Lang to reduce the Colonial postage rates to 1*d.* each for letters under 4oz., posted and delivered in the same town, and 2*d.* each for conveyance of single letters to or from any part of the Colony. At present, by the usual route of a letter to Port Phillip (Melbourne) it costs from 1/3 to 2/6 for each ½oz. weight, namely 1/- payable in advance in this country, and 3*d.* on arrival in the Colony; or if by way of Sydney (direct mails to Melbourne being infrequent) 1/6, being 1/3 extra for overland postage. By Dr. Lang's plan, in connection with an ocean penny postage, as proposed, a single letter direct to Melbourne or Sydney would cost 3*d.* altogether, namely, 1*d.* in Britain, 1*d.* to the ship, and 1*d.* for the town delivery in the Colony.—WESTGARTH, Australia Felix, Edinburgh, 1847.

Our friends in America are awaking up to this account. They are determined not only to have penny postage from the Atlantic to the Pacific, but also across the Atlantic to the old world; and all to be established by the United States. So the question will soon be, whether Uncle John Bull or Brother Jonathan shall carry letters across the Atlantic for a penny a-piece. Jonathan can do this, and would do it, if the world should challenge him to do "something smart." But Uncle John ought to do it before any one else in the world. He owes it to the Colonies which he has planted all over the globe—to the millions of his children which he has sent out to live in the islands of all the oceans and seas far and near, and who want to write home every week. That is the ocean penny postage the world wants; not a penny postage across the Atlantic, from Liverpool to Boston, but a penny postage across all oceans and seas. Brother Jonathan is smart for his age undoubtedly, and would do a great thing for the world if you should once "raise his dander" in the right direction. But we fear his purse is not long enough, nor his ships numerous, to establish a universal ocean penny postage. This is Uncle John Bull's mission, and we must all put him up to its fulfilment. All his children and grandchildren, nieces and nephews, at home and abroad, must tug at his skirts in their most winning way, and with filial faith and hope smiling in their eyes, meet him by the wayside and fireside, and in all accessible moods and conditions, with this question—"Uncle John, when will you give us an ocean penny postage?" Don't be discouraged if he pooh-poohs at it at first, and buttons up his pockets, and talks about hard times, and all that. Keep at him steadily for a year in this way, and, like all other good-natured uncles, he will give in. Then what a jubilee there will be in thousands and tens of thousands of homes separated from each other by a thousand leagues or more of sea! Oh, Uncle John! the world would forgive you for all the unpleasant accidents you have occasioned in apportioning so much of this globe to the members of your family, if you would but give to mankind an ocean penny postage.—ELIHU BURRITT, quoted in Chambers's Journal, 1849.

The records of the French Stage in the 18th century are of high and varied interest. The best dramatists of the period were no unworthy followers of Corneille, Molière, and Racine, for Comedy included among her votaries Regnard, Lesage, Destouches, Piron, Lachaussée, Gresset, Diderot, Sédaine, and Beaumarchais, while Tragedy was represented by Voltaire. Besides her writers, France during this period, possessed many players of the highest order, viz. Baron, Mlle. Lecouvreur, Quinault-Dufresne, Mlle. Dangeville, Mlle. Gassin, Mlle. Dumesnil, Mlle. Clairon, Lekain, Préville, Molé, Mlle. Contat, Fleury, and the greatest actor of modern times—Talma.

ECONOMICS, POLITICS, AND TOPICS OF THE DAY.

"Why are men ill at ease?
'Tis that the lot they have Fails their own will to please."—Empedocles on Etna.

"First and foremost of the necessary means towards man's civilisation we must name expansion....the manifestation of which we English know best, and prize most, is the love of liberty....The other great manifestation of the instinct of expansion is the love of equality....The basis being given, we may rapidly enumerate the powers, which upon this basis, contribute to build up human civilisation. They are the power of conduct, the power of intellect and knowledge, the power of beauty, the power of social life and manners. Expansion, conduct, science, beauty, manners,—here are the conditions of civilisation, the claimants which man must satisfy before he can be humanised."—Preface to Mixed Essays.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

"The commonest of commonplaces tells us how men are always apt to regard wealth as a precious end in itself; and certainly they have never been so apt thus to regard it as they are in England at the present time. Never did people believe anything more firmly, than nine Englishmen out of ten at the present day believe that our greatness and welfare are proved by our being so very rich. Now, the use of culture is that it helps us, by means of its spiritual standard of perfection, to regard wealth as but machinery, and not only to say as a matter of words that we regard wealth as machinery, but really to perceive and feel that it is so...."

"If it were not for this purging effect wrought upon our minds by Culture, the whole world the future as well as the present, would inevitably belong to the Philistines. The people who believe most that our greatness and welfare are proved by our being very rich, and who most give their lives and thoughts to becoming rich, are just the very people whom we call Philistines."—Culture and Anarchy.

LAW AND JURISPRUDENCE.

"Infelicitous the general direction of our affairs may be; but the individual Englishman, whenever and wherever called upon to do his duty, does it almost invariably with the old energy, courage, virtue. And this is what we gain by having had, as a people, in the ground of our being, a firm faith in conduct; by having believed, more steadfastly and fervently than most, this great law that MORAL CAUSES GOVERN THE STANDING AND THE FALLING OF MEN AND NATIONS."—Preface to Discourses in America.

BIBLICAL, RELIGIOUS, AND PHILOSOPHICAL WORKS.

"Creeds pass, rites change, no altar standeth whole."—Poems: Monica's Last Prayer.

"Schools of philosophy arise and fall; their bands of adherents inevitably dwindle; no master can long persuade a large body of disciples that they give to themselves just the same account of the world as he does. . . . What a remarkable philosopher really does for human thought, is to throw into circulation a certain number of new and striking ideas and expressions, and to stimulate with them the thought and imagination of his century or of after-times."—Essays in Criticism.

"'If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them!'—the last word for infirm humanity will always be that. For this word, reiterated with a power now sublime, now affecting, but always admirable, our race will, as long as the world lasts, return to Hebraism; and the Bible, which preaches this word, will for ever remain, as Goethe called it, not only a national book, but the Book of the Nations."—Preface to Culture and Anarchy.

CRITICISM, ESSAYS, AND BELLES LETTRES.

"I think that in England . . . . there exists too little of what I may call a public force of correct literary opinion, possessing within certain limits a clear sense of what is right and wrong, sound and unsound, and sharply recalling men of ability and learning from any flagrant misdirection of these their advantages. . . . . Hence a chaos of false tendencies, wasted efforts, impotent conclusions, works which ought never to have been undertaken. Any one who can introduce a little order into this chaos by establishing in any quarter a single sound rule of criticism, a single rule which clearly marks what is right as right, and what is wrong as wrong, does a good deed; and his deed is so much the better the greater force he counteracts of learning and ability applied to thicken the chaos."—Last Words on Translating Homer.

MATTHEW ARNOLD'S WRITINGS.

"There is no Englishman who has conceived a more exalted idea of the functions of the critic, or kept more faithfully in view his own definition of the business of the critical power 'in all branches of knowledge, theology, philosophy, history, art, science, to see the object as in itself it really is,' or exercised that power with a more fascinating clearness or more elegant or charming urbanity."—New York Tribune.

"Hunc unum recentiores inter poetas quos genuit Oxonia, præstantissimum audeo dicere—arte, haud secus ac materia valet. 'Non illi vis, non subtilitas, non amaritudo, non dulcedo, non lepos afuit.' Sonat amorem, philosophiam, pacem lyra ejus: spem non sonat."

POETRY AND THE DRAMA.

"Beethoven, Raphael, cannot reach
The charm which Homer, Shakespeare, teach.
To these, to these, their thankful race
Gives, then, the first, the fairest place;
And brightest is their glory's sheen,
For greatest hath their labour been."
—Poems: Epilogue to Lessing's Laocoon.

"The grand power of poetry is its interpretative power; by which I mean, not a power of drawing out in black and white an explanation of the mystery of the universe, but the power of so dealing with things as to awaken in us a wonderfully full, new, and intimate sense of them, and of our relations with them."—Essays in Criticism.

PHILOLOGY, EDUCATION, &c.

"The tyranny of the past, many think, weighs on us injuriously in the predominance given to letters in education. ..... In our culture, the aim being to know ourselves and the world, we have, as the means to this end, to know the best which has been thought and said in the world.

"I cannot really think that humane letters are in much actual danger of being thrust out from their leading place in education, in spite of the array of authorities against them at this moment..... While we shall all have to acquaint ourselves with the great results reached by modern science, and to give ourselves as much training in its disciplines as we can conveniently carry, yet the majority of men will always require humane letters; and so much the more, as they have the more and the greater results of science to relate to the need in man for conduct, and to the need in him for beauty."—Discourses in America: Literature and Science.

MEDICINE, SURGERY, ANATOMY, &c.

"Medical science has never gauged,—never, perhaps, enough set itself to gauge,—the intimate connexion between moral fault and disease. To what extent, or in how many cases, what is called illness is due to moral springs having been used amiss,—whether by being over-used or by not being used sufficiently,—we hardly at all know, and we too little inquire. Certainly it is due to this very much more than we commonly think; and the more it is due to this, the more do moral therapeutics rise in possibility and importance. The bringer of light and happiness, the calmer and pacifier, or invigorator and stimulator, is one of the chiefest of doctors."—Literature and Dogma.

AGRICULTURE, RURAL AND DOMESTIC ECONOMY, GAMES AND FIELD SPORTS.

"The base mechanic arts, and handicrafts, says Plato, bring about a natural weakness in the principle of excellence in a man.....His ideas show the influence of a primitive and obsolete order of things, when the warrior caste and the priestly caste were alone in honour, and the humble work of the world was done by slaves. We have now changed all that; the modern majority consists in work, as Emerson declares; and in work, we may add, principally of such plain and dusty kind as the work of cultivators of the ground, handicraftsmen, &c."
—Discourses in America: Literature and Science.

"The result of all the games and sports which occupy the passing generation of boys and young men may be the establishment of a better and sounder physical type to work with. Culture does not set itself against the games and sports; it congratulates the future, and hopes it will make a good use of its improved physical basis; but it points out that our passing generation of boys and young men is, meantime, sacrificed."—Culture and Anarchy.

RECENT COLONIAL PUBLICATIONS

AND BOOKS RELATING TO THE BRITISH COLONIES.

"And you are fifty millions and growing apace....But you are something more than a people of fifty millions. You are fifty millions mainly sprung....from that German stock which has faults indeed....Yet of the German stock it is, I think, true, as my father said more than fifty years ago, that it has been a stock of the most moral races of men that the world has yet seen, with the soundest laws, the least violent passions, the fairest domestic and civil virtues. You come, therefore, of about the best parentage which a modern nation can have."—Discourses in America: Numbers.

Barton (G. B.) The Official History of New South Wales. To be completed in fifteen parts, each part comprising the term of a Governor's Administration and containing the History of the Colony for the Period, as it appears in the Official Records. Sydney, 1888. price 10/6 per part.

The first part will include the letters written by Governor Phillip previous to his departure from England and while on his voyage out, and also his despatches from Sydney. These documents—which have not been previously published—are by far the most valuable and interesting records of the time. The collection of original documents known as the Brabourne papers formerly in the possession of Sir Joseph Banks and recently acquired by the Government furnish important material for the history of the Colony from 1788 to 1808.

The object of this work is to give a true history of the events attendant on the annexation of the Transvaal, which act has so frequently been assigned to the most unworthy motives, and has never yet been fairly described by any one who was in a position to know the facts; to throw as much publicity as possible on the state of Zululand, resulting from our recent settlement in that country; and to show all interested in the Native Races what has been the character of our surrender in the Transvaal, and what its effect will be on our abandoned native subjects living in that country.

FRAGMENTS for a Future History of Botany Bay, or New South Wales.—See pp. 179-196 of GEOGRAPHICAL, COMMERCIAL, AND POLITICAL ESSAYS; including Statistic Details of various Countries. 8vo. pp. xiii. 323. London. 1812.

The Essays and fragments collected in this volume were gleaned by a commercial gentleman whose business relations brought him into connexion with Travellers, Merchants, and Ship-owners. The pieces having reference to New South Wales are:—

(1) Remarks on Reading in Phillips' Collection (June 1810) a French Voyage to New South Wales [on Floods in the Hawkesbury, &c.]

(2) Present State of the Colony in New South Wales, related to me February 14, 1809, by the Rev. Mr. Marsden the Chaplain. pp. 180-186.

(3) Copy of a Letter, dated Sydney, May 23, 1805, received October 10th, 1805—half a year!—from an Officer's Wife, Mrs. Hartley, to her sister in Beverley, Mrs. ——. pp. 186-188.

This is the letter referred to by West (Hist. of Tasmania, I. p. 30) and by Bonwick (Port Phillip Settlements, p. 79). Much to Mrs. Hartley's regret, Lieut.-Gov. Collins settled his Colony at the River Derwent, in V. D. Land, in preference to Port Phillip. "My pen," she writes, "is not able to describe half the beauties of that delightful spot."... "Port Phillip is my favourite, and has my warmest wishes. During the time we were there [three months] I never felt one ache or pain, and I parted from it with more regret than I did from my native land."

(4) Occurrences of the Year 1798, September 14. A Letter. pp. 188-191.

(5) From a Letter in 1796 or 7. p. 192.

(6) From an Officer, Captain Bertram, who passed two days on board of a Convict Ship about 1800. pp. 193-196.

FRENCH TRANSLATION: Souvenirs d'un Déporté à la Nouvelle-Galles du Sud.—REVUE BRITANNIQUE, Vol. VIII. pp. 108-153. Paris. 1826.

The genuine composition of one Mellish who had returned from Transportation, and being again committed to the gaol of one of the Midland Counties, recorded his experiences for the amusement of the gaoler's wife in a copy-book, which was filled even to the covers. On the back was inscribed "MELLISH'S BOOK OF BOTANY BAY." The period described is that of Governor Macquarie, from 1810 to about 1815. Mellish tells of life aboard the convict-ship, the manner convicts were engaged by settlers on arrival at the "Bay"—Government first securing the mechanics; condition of tickets-of-leave; female convicts; up-country life, cattle and sheep stations; the natives and some of their customs; the native dog, kangaroo, bandicoot, insects, birds, &c. When Mellish left the "Bay," he shipped himself as "servant to a gentleman and lady which had been convicts, but had accumulated enough to retire to England with." But, bringing with him six stowaways, who were soon afterwards discovered, he with them, was confined in the hold till the vessel arrived at the Cape, where they were all put ashore and left. The story breaks off abruptly, and in the middle of a sentence, so that we do not know how Mellish found his way "Home Again."

By a Former Police Officer. 8vo. pp. 36 and portrait. London. 1829.

WAKEFIELD. A Letter from Sydney, the Principal Town of Australasia. Edited by Robert Gouger. Together with the Outline of a System of Colonization. 12mo, pp. x. 222, xxiv. and map. London. 1829.

In this work the Author [Edward Gibbon Wakefield] first gave utterance to his ideas of Colonization, which he followed up and developed in "England and America," and other publications—the result being the formation of a Company and the Foundation of SOUTH AUSTRALIA (q.v.).

Coleridge's copy of the book, with his Notes and Marginalia, is in my possession. On the title he has written:—

A very clever little book.
S.T.C.

On p. 29, to the author's remark that:—

"Whatever the amount of immigration into a waste country, there must constantly exist an urgent demand for labour, so long as the territory at the disposal of the people shall remain immense in proportion to their numbers—so long, in other words, as there shall remain any fertile land uncultivated—"

There is this footnote:—

Mr. Gouger seems to have overlooked the increasing effect of condensation and increased distance from fertile free land. Doubtless the immense natural and artificial water conveyance with steamboats lessens this effect in N. America, but in Australia it [will] in time become a great obstacle to independent settling and of course tend to increase the number and diminish the wages of hirable labourers.

P 36. Upon Slavery and its revival by Christians:—

Pretty Christian! sweet Lambs of the Gospel Fold: for "Christian" read "Christen'd."

If man should ever become generally sufficiently good, or if the few Good and Wise should become sufficiently powerful, to make each of a hundred men submit to that which would produce the largest quantity of power, work and happiness, contemplated and weighed collectively and independent of the proportions in which the sum total was distributed to the several individual members of the Hundred; yet so as to render it demonstrable that he who of the Hundred came in for the Minimum Dividend received a sum equal to or greater than the Maximum Prize in the existing Law and System. Then, I doubt not that I could make it evident that Confederacies of Free Labour could be so organized as to admit an inequality of circumstance and leisure (i.e. comforts and free time) proportional and correspondent to the natural acquired inequalities of the men—so as to supersede all pretext for Slavery. But in the present state of things and opinions, I dare not deny that very plausible arguments in favour of a well-regulated slavery under the jealous superintendence of Public Law might be advanced. S. T. C.

P. 169. Upon the remark that: "Government might, by restricting the amount of [Land] grants, establish and maintain the most desirable proportion between people and territory," &c.:—

No, NO, NO! Squatting would be the Rage, and before thirty years had elapsed, the number and strength of the Squatters would compel a title from any such Government as could exist in a country so circumstanced! S. T. C.

P. 170. On Wakefield's "Sufficient price" system and his argument that: "the price which the American Government requires for waste land is too low for the only purpose that calls for any price at all," &c.:—

Why, even as it is, the American Government find it difficult to maintain their titles against the Squatters: and in very many cases the legal Purchaser is obliged to secure his possession by a compromise with them. Bushranging and the worst and most ferocious form of Bewilderment would be among the fruits of such an attempt. Sic cogitat et credit S. T. Coleridge, 10 April, 1830.

THE COLONIES AND INDIA,

ESTABLISHED OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

Read by all interested in the Colonies and India. The Best Markets in the World for British Manufactures.

THE COLONIES AND INDIA is the only Paper published in this country which contains summaries of news of intrinsic importance alike to Shippers, Merchants, and Manufacturers, and the general reader from all the Countries allied with the British Empire. Not the least prominent feature of this Journal is that it represents the Royal Colonial Institute—an important and influential body representing the Colonies and India, and that 50,000 to 60,000 copies of the Paper circulate yearly among its Members, who for the most part have trade relations with all the Colonies and Dependencies of Great Britain. It is generally conceded that the Paper contains news of great practical value to all who are engaged in Trade between the Mother Country and her Colonies.

News is given under the following heads.—

AUSTRALIA.

New South Wales.
Victoria.
Queensland.
Western Australia.
South Australia.

NEW ZEALAND. TASMANIA & FIJI.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Western Province.
Eastern Province.
Midland Province.
The Orange Free State
Natal, and the Diamond Fields.
The Transvaal.

THE WEST INDIES.

Jamaica,
Turks and Caicos Islands.
Nevis.
St. Kitts.
Montserrat.
Dominica
Antigua.
Virgin Islands.
Barbados.
Honduras.
Bahamas.
St. Lucia.
St. Vincent.
Grenada.
Tobago.
Trinidad.
British Guiana.

BRITISH NORTH AMERICA. CEYLON AND INDIA. CENTRAL ASIA.

In addition to the above, The COLONIES AND INDIA contains Original Articles and Notes dealing with the progress and extension of the Trade between Great Britain and her outlying dependencies.

The COLONIES AND INDIA is read by the bulk of the Merchants and others doing business abroad.

Published Weekly; Subscription for 52 Issues a Year, postage paid, 10/6. for Home Subscribers; and 12/6 Abroad.

161, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.

Postal Orders and Cheques (crossed Martin & Co.) to be made payable to R. Scott.

COLONIES AND INDIA, London, is sufficient address for Letters or Telegrams.

CHEAP EDITIONS OF POPULAR NOVELS.

Each in One Volume, Crown 8vo, price 6*s.*

KNIGHT-ERRANT. By EDNA LYALL.

"'Knight-Errant' is marked by the author's best qualities as a writer of fiction, and displays on every page the grace and quiet power of her former works."—Athenæum.

"The plot, and, indeed, the whole story, is gracefully fresh and very charming; there is a wide humanity in the book that cannot fail to accomplish its author's purpose."—Literary World.

"This novel is distinctly helpful and inspiring from its high tone, its intense human feeling, and its elevated morality. It forms an additional proof, if such were needed, that Miss Lyall has a mandate to write."—Academy.

DONOVAN: A Modern Englishman. By EDNA LYALL.

"This is a very admirable work. The reader is from the first carried away by the gallant unconventionality of its author. 'Donovan' is a very excellent novel; but it is something more and better. It should do as much good as the best sermon every written or delivered extempore. The story is told with a grand simplicity, an unconscious poetry of eloquence which stirs the very depths of the heart. One of the main excellences of this novel is the delicacy of touch with which the author shows her most delightful characters to be, after all, human beings, and not angels before their time."—Standard.

WE TWO. By EDNA LYALL.

"This book is well written and full of interest. The story abounds with a good many light touches, and is certainly far from lacking in incident."—Times.

"'We Two' contains very many exciting passages and a great deal of information. Miss Lyall is a capable writer and a clear-headed thinker."—Athenæum.

IN THE GOLDEN DAYS. By EDNA LYALL.

"Miss Lyall has given us a vigorous study of such life and character as are really worth reading about. The central figure of her story is Algernon Sydney; and this figure she invests with a singular dignity and power. He always appears with effect, but no liberties are taken with the facts of his life. The plot is adapted with great felicity to them. His part in it, absolutely consistent as it is with historical truth, gives it reality as well as dignity. Some of the scenes are remarkably vivid. The escape is an admirable narrative, which almost makes one hold one's breath as one reads."—Spectator.

WON BY WAITING. By EDNA LYALL.

"The Dean's daughters are perfectly real characters—the learned Cornelia especially; the little impulsive French heroine, who endures their cold hospitality and at last wins their affection, is thoroughly charming; while throughout the book there runs a golden thread of pure brotherly and sisterly love, which pleasantly reminds us that the making and marring of marriage is not, after all, the sum total of real life."—Academy.

THE CHANDOS LIBRARY. A series of 15 volumes, representing standard works in various classes of literature. In crown 8vo, price 3*s.* 6*d.* each, new style of binding, cloth gilt, marbled sides and edges.

WARNE'S CROWN LIBRARY. Price 2*s.* per volume.

An entirely new series, drawn from the works of some of the most eminent authors, and embodying many celebrated novels, as well as other miscellaneous writings which hold a foremost place in English literature.

The "Crown Library" meets a different demand from our now well-known series, "The Chandos Classics;" both being drawn from entirely distinct branches of literature.

Recent volumes are:—

21. Handy Andy. By Samuel Lover.
22. Harry Lorrequer. By Charles Lever.
23. The Last of the Mohicans. By Fenimore Cooper.

The Spectator says:—"Clearly printed volumes, well bound in brown cloth, and certainly a marvel of cheapness. This promises to be a library of fiction that any one might be proud to possess, and is really beyond the reach of but few readers."

THE STAR SERIES. 1*s.* and 1*s.* 6*d.* editions. In small crown 8vo, picture wrapper, sewed, 1*s.*; or cloth gilt, 1*s.* 6*d.* each.

A very popular edition of well-known books, many of them copyright, and published at prices united with style and completeness, hitherto unequalled. 69 volumes are now issued in this series, including works by E. P. Roe, Susan Warner, Mrs. Prentiss, Miss Alcott, and other well-known writers.

THE STAR SERIES. 1*s.* 6*d.* and 2*s.* editions. Uniform in style with the preceding, but comprising longer works by the same authors. The latest additions to this series of 22 volumes are:—

108. The Daughter of Fife. Amelia E. Barr.
109. The Bow of Orange Ribbon. Mrs. A. E. Barr.
110. Between Two Loves. Mrs. A. E. Barr.

WARNE'S LONDON LIBRARY. A popular series of original copyright novels by well-known authors. In small crown 8vo, sewed, price 1*s.* each.

The new volumes lately added are:

18. Ruthven of Ruthven. By Evelyn Everett Green.
19. A Rustic Maid. By Mrs. Alice Price.
20. The Fortunes of Philippa Fairfax. By F. H. Burnett.
21. That Lass o' Lowrie's. By the same.

LIBRARY OF CONTINENTAL AUTHORS. Copyright works of some of the best known Continental authors. In crown 8vo, sewed, price 1*s.* Just published in this series:—

6. Zyte. By Hector Malot. Translated by J. E. Simpson.
7. Cousin Pons. By Balzac. Translated by Philip Kent, B.A.

WARNE'S SIXPENNY NOTABLE NOVELS AND NOTABLE BOOKS. A series of 126 volumes comprising the works of our best and most popular authors, such as Dickens, Lytton, Marryat, James, Porter, Lover, Lever, Disraeli, and others. In demy 8vo, with handsome coloured picture cover, price 6*d.* each.

HANDY INFORMATION BOOKS. In crown 8vo, price 2*s.* 6*d.* each, cloth gilt. Including well-known works such as The Manners and Rules of Good Society. By a Member of the Aristocracy. Food and Feeding. By Sir Henry Thompson. &c., &c.

AMONG POPULAR WORKS are—

Nuttall's Standard Pronouncing Dictionary. New edition, revised by Wood. Cloth gilt, 3*s.* 6*d.*, and other styles.

Warne's Model Cookery. 5*s.*, and People's Edition, 1*s.*

AN INDEX TO THE LITERATURE OF GEOGRAPHY,

MARITIME AND INLAND DISCOVERY, COMMERCE AND COLONIZATION.

BEING A CATALOGUE OF THE COLLECTION OF S. WM. SILVER, ESQ., AT YORK GATE, REGENT'S PARK, LONDON.

COMPILED BY E. A. PETHERICK, F.R.G.S.

Illustrated with facsimiles of rare Title-pages and Maps.

"A volume of infinite value as a record of books about voyages, discoveries, commerce and colonization . . . . and an essential work for every large library to possess. . . . It is a cyclopædia of geography and travel, an index not only to rare and priceless, but to ordinary and popular books. It gives not only titles of works and elaborate indexes to the great collections—Hakluyt, Purchas, Churchill, &c.—but the contents are classified and arranged in order of date, and thus the facts of the history of discovery and colonization are ready for the reader's hand. . . . . The printing and the binding are admirable in accuracy, clearness and good taste; indeed the volume is a livre de luxe in style, fit for any drawing-room table, while its contents and arrangement leave it without a rival in English literature as a bibliographical treasure and a summary of historical and geographical facts. The liberal collector has been very fortunate in his cataloguer, for Mr. E. A. Petherick has not only a wide and rare knowledge of books, but such minute and methodical care that a careful examination of his references has failed to discover even a printer's error."—BIRMINGHAM POST.

"As a book of reference to the geographical student, the York Gate Catalogue is of the highest value."—SYDNEY HERALD.
